

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Rentokil Pest Control Service is committed to the maintenance and continual improvement of sound environmental practice.

We believe that environmental protection is an integral part of our business and its services to ensure the safety of our staff, customers and the general public.

Rentokil Initial complies with sound environmental practices including compliance to environmental legislation.

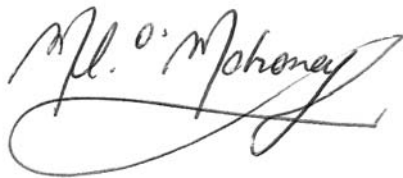

Our products, services and procedures are regularly improved to take account of new developments in environmental protection, which we can effectively apply to the benefit of our staff, customers and the general public.

We will take into consideration new ideas from our staff, clients and other organisations with a view to achieving this policy.

We intend to improve our environment management system to ensure we effectively reach or surpass our environmental policy objectives and targets, and also to improve compliance to legislation and good practice and to monitor, review and improve our policy targets and objectives.

Rentokil Initial will provide environmental information and training to our staff and customers to ensure this policy is implemented, thus promoting collective respect and responsibility for the benefit of the environment, our staff, our clients and the general public.

In pursuit of this policy we will inform our staff and customers of how we can improve our services in an environmentally friendly manner.

Michael O' Mahoney
Divisional Manager