

Rentokil Initial

Protecting People. Enhancing Lives.

Precautionary Specialist Disinfection Service Reduces the risk of illness by killing disease-causing pathogens.

Rentokil's disinfection service using specially formulated micro emulsion eliminates disease-causing organisms that may be lurking around your business premises.

Coronavirus and other pathogens can pose a serious health risk to your visitors, employees and business. Pathogens spread easily throughout a property, via body fluids, cross-contamination between people and surfaces.

Infections can occur through contact with skin-especially through touching other infected surfaces, breathing airborne viral pathogens or by consumption of contaminated food and water.

How it works

A Rentokil technician will apply the treatment on your premises.

The Rentokil Disinfection service utilises specially formulated micro emulsion technology that applies an active Barrier which can persist and kill for hours afterward.

Our suppliers Laboratory testing showed the barrier killing pathogens 72 hours after it was applied. So long as the barrier is not wiped off, our treatment provides residual protection and biosecurity reassurance between cleans.

The treatment is noncorrosive and nonstaining and is safe enough to use on all surfaces, including metals, plastics and fabrics.

Following the strictest health and safety guidelines, our professional experts are travelling across Ireland to provide precautionary disinfection services to protect your health and wellbeing.
